SUBJECT:

Description: Opposition to 27% Rate Increase - Raising the fixed rate base from $16.75 to $46 is an obvious ploy to reduce a consumer's ability to control their individual home costs and guarantees the company a secure elevated fixed revenue floor. In less than 2 years, CCF cost has risen from $.29240 to its most recent charged cost of $1.0558 being a 311.6% increase. A consumer's ability to reduce the cost structure entails lowering usage being in the nature of supply and demand. This proposal eliminates that ability and instills an even higher cost structure for the consumer from which they cannot reduce demand. While the delivery charge has been rather stable at $16.75 and down from $17.81, the proposed new cost structure is a 175% increase. Undoubtedly, this will adversely impacts those on fixed income when so many areas of cost - food, energy - are rising at 40 year historical levels. How will they manage?
