Dear Ohio Power Siting Board,

Even though the drama continues in our small community, the majority of us are against using agricultural land for major solar projects.

With millions of acres of paved parking lots, there is no need to tie up more farm ground, just canopy those acres already paved with panels.

My friend, Rita lives in Summery, sunny Florida. To save on her electric bill, she had solar panels installed on her house. She saves $25.00 a month on her electric bill. The panels cost $30,000.00. She feels they were not given accurate information, and will never financially see their solar investments profitable.

A major concern I have, is the hiring of JP Morgan by the Algonquin/Liberty entity to market their company. Financial woes?

Do the landowners want their real estate in hands of Algonquin-Liberty? Will history be repeating itself and poor people suffering?

I trust your good judgement to help agricultural production at a premium in Ohio.

Sincerely,
Christine Kampfer
